CHIPMAKER TRYING TO CARVE OUT A NEW MARKET

Nvidia forms alliance to power AI-native 6G

BLOOMBERG
March 1

AI PUSH

- Firm teaming up with a group of telecom companies
- Change necessary due to myriad devices that will be attached to networks in future: Nvidia
- Current generation, 5G, designed to connect people via voice, data, provide them with retrieved info

NVIDIA, THE WORLD'S most valuable company, is throwing its weight behind an effort to make sure the forthcoming 6G phone networks provide a strong platform for services and devices that take advantage of artificial intelligence (AI).

Nvidia is teaming up with a group of telecommunications companies including Nokia Oyj, SoftBank Group and T-Mobile US that will commit to building sixth-generation networks based on computers and software capable of using AI to help direct radio traffic safely and efficiently.

The change is necessary because of myriad devices that will be attached to networks in the future and their more complex requirements, Nvidia said Sunday in a statement timed for the opening of a telecom industry conference in Barcelona.

The current generation, 5G, was designed to connect people via voice and data and provide them with retrieved information. It isn't capable of supporting the widespread use of AI, Nvidia said.

The chipmaker, whose gear is at the centre of the AI explosion, is trying to carve out a new market and clear a potential roadblock. Nvidia already offers versions of its chips, computers and software for use in networks and hopes to expand that business. At the same time, the company needs AI to spread to more areas — in things termed physical AI, like robots and vehicles — to continue to fuel demand and pay for the data centers that are currently the biggest consumers of its technology.

Without wireless networks enabled for AI traffic, Nvidia's vision of a world full of humanoid robots and self-driving cars might be slower to emerge.

Every decade or so the telecommunications business shifts to a new generation of wireless technology, the next "G." In the run-up to setting standards that determine the parameters of new hardware and software, companies form alliances to steer the industry in a direction they believe will favor their products. That approach has a mixed record and has been undermined by competing efforts that have sometimes delayed new deployments or resulted in networks that are incompatible.

Nvidia argues that new gear and software needs to be fundamentally open. Instead of locked-down devices with bespoke hardware, the radios that send and receive wireless traffic should be controlled by software that can be updated and runs on more general purpose computers.

The data traffic should be routed by AI software that's capable of responding to rapidly changing patterns.

Pak-Afghan clashes: Death toll tops 350

Taliban soldiers pose as they stand on a Humvee, following exchanges of fire between Pakistani and Afghan forces, in Afghanistan on Saturday

PAKISTAN SAID ITS ongoing campaign against Afghan militants have left more than 350 Taliban dead, as clashes between the two sides continued for a fourth day and showed few signs of easing.

Pakistan has targeted 41 locations across Afghanistan by air, Information Minister Attaullah Tarar said in a post on X. In addition to those killed, more than 530 were injured, while 130 check posts were destroyed.

Pakistan Defence Minister Khawaja Asif earlier declared an "open war" with Afghanistan as fighting escalated after months of cross-border strikes and a failed ceasefire attempt by Qatar and Turkey. Islamabad has targeted militants in Afghanistan, which it says is supported by the Taliban government to plan attacks in Pakistan. The Taliban denied the allegations. Afghan authorities have said its forces had killed 55 Pakistani soldiers, and captured two military bases and 19 military posts, Al Jazeera reported. Pakistan has dismissed the claim.

Relations between the neighbors have steadily broken down in the years since the return of the Afghan Taliban in 2021 following the withdrawal of US-led forces. Pakistan had initially backed the Taliban takeover, betting that the new government would help rein in Islamist militants operating in Pakistan. Instead, those militants have stepped up their insurgency in tribal areas around the country.

Opec+ agrees...

RIYADH HAS BEEN increasing oil production and exports in recent weeks by around 500,000 bpd in preparation for US strikes on Opec+ member Iran, sources have told Reuters. Oil, gas and other shipments from West Asia via the Strait of Hormuz have come to a halt since Saturday after shipowners received a warning from Iran saying the area was closed for navigation. Hundreds of ships dropped anchor and were not moving on Sunday and several ships came under attack. Hormuz is the world's most important oil route accounting for over 20% of a global oil transit.

West Asian leaders have warned Washington that a war on Iran could lead to oil prices jumping to over $100 per barrel, said veteran Opec analyst Helima Croft from RBC. Analysts from Barclays also said prices could rise to $100.

Croft said the market impact from any Opec output increase will be limited due to a lack of production capabilities outside Saudi Arabia.

"A tighter market in the first quarter allows the group to continue increasing the quota, however real barrels being added to the market will be a fraction of it," said Giovanni Staunovo, an oil analyst at UBS.

Opec+'s declining level of spare capacity might have been a factor behind the decision not to opt for a larger boost, he said.

The meeting on Sunday involved only eight members of Opec+ — Saudi Arabia, Russia, the UAE, Kazakhstan, Kuwait, Iraq, Algeria and Oman. OPEC+ groups the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries and allies like Russia but most production changes in the past years have been done by the eight members. The eight members raised production quotas by about 2.9 million bpd from April through December 2025, roughly 3% of global demand, before pausing increases for January to March 2026 due to seasonal weakness.

BYD Feb car sales decline at steepest pace since Covid

CHINESE ELECTRIC VEHICLE maker BYD recorded the biggest fall in global sales in six years last month against a backdrop of fierce competition in the world's largest auto market.

BYD's February sales dropped 41.1% from a year earlier, the sixth consecutive month of decline, according to a stock market filing on Sunday.

The fall last month was the biggest since February 2020 when the economy was hit by the Covid-19 pandemic.

Car sales and other economic indicators tend to show big swings in the first two months due to the timing of Lunar New Year, which could be particularly notable this year as China extended the annual holiday to a record-breaking nine days.

But BYD's sales downturn goes beyond seasonal factors. Its sales were down 35.8% year-on-year globally in the first two months.

Its overseas shipments maintained robust growth from the year before, at 100,600 vehicles in February.

US payroll growth seen moderating

March 1

US PAYROLLS GROWTH probably settled back in February after the strongest month of hiring in a year, returning to a more moderate and likely sustainable pace of hiring.

Economists project 60,000 jobs were added for the month — less than half the number created at the start of the year, according to the median of a Bloomberg survey ahead of Friday's report. The jobless rate is seen holding steady at 4.3%.

After years of scrambling to lure workers, employers dialed back hiring rapidly in 2025. The result was the weakest year for payrolls growth outside of a recession since 2003. That's led to increased anxiety among American consumers who've been the primary source of fuel for the economy. The longer the job market limps along, the more consumer resilience will be put to the test.
